E N V Í N A T E

The name “Envínate” (roughly translating to “go wine yourself”) refers not to a specific person but to a group of four friends who form a collective of winemakers devoted to protecting and promoting native Spanish grape varieties. Together they make wine in the outlier regions of Ribeira Sacra, Almansa and the Canary Islands. The results are fresh, loaded with personality, and incredibly versatile table wines that are still completely unique. However, due to the vineyard specific nature of these wines, they are made in extremely limited quantities.
